Valves for lake water ready for installation

The Lake Elsinore project took another long step forward during July with the announcement by R. L. Hibbert, president of the local park board, that valves for filling of the lake are now available and in the hands of Metropolitan Water District. The valves, when installed, will release water in sufficient quantity to complete the delivery of 30,000 acre-feet in 60 days.

The valves will be located at the Lakeview outlet, the same point at which water for Elsinore Valley Municipal Water District and Temescal Water Company is now released to flow down the San Jacinto River to Railroad Canyon reservoir.

While water will be delivered to Lake Elsinore by Metropolitan on a year-to-year basis only, on the first year of delivery the contract will run for 18 months. The extra months will be needed, Hibbert said, to prepare recreational facilities on the lake, and to fill the now-empty lake.

While it is anticipated that annual payments, amounting to almost $54,000, can be made from lake use revenue on the $750,000 loan which the state's Small Craft Harbors Division has been authorized to make to the Division of Beaches and Parks for the purpose, both the local park district and the County of Riverside have guaranteed payment in case surplus water is not available and the project fails to produce sufficient revenue. In that case the Elsinore Recreation and Park District would meet payment to the extent of revenue from a 25-cent tax assessment, which is the limit allowed by law. The County of Riverside has guaranteed to make up any deficiency.

The State Legislature, during its last regular session, reaffirmed its position on the project. In its resolution of re-affirmation, requested by H. M. Fisher, administrator of the Resources Agency of California, the Legislature directed "all appropriate state agencies to use such diligence and take such steps as may be necessary to complete the project of filling Lake Elsinore at the earliest possible date . . ."

Apparently only hurdle remains to be overcome. That is the "Hold Harmless" clause which has had state legal minds scratching their heads. MWD has made it known that it will deliver no water unless the state assumes liability in case of law suits. Such suits could arise either in case of heavy rains following the filling of the lake, and subsequent flooding of property; or in case of draught periods during which no surplus waters were available and property owners surrounding the lake were hurt financially if the lake should again go dry due to MWD's inability to supply water.

Mr. Fisher, in a memorandum to the office of the state's Attorney General, stated that he understood the County of Riverside had expressed willingness to assume this responsibility, and proposed that "the documents necessary to effectuate this should also be included in your preparation." However Ray T. Sullivan, Riverside County Counsel, says "I know of no such action taken to justify this conclusion."

The Attorney General's office has suggested as a possibility "the purchase of insurance necessary to protect against such liability."

Meanwhile, with dust devils dancing over the bed of the lake, beautiful Lake Elsinore is still a dust bowl. ■

Lake Queen leaves Elsinore

Fred Ashbridge leaving for Wilmington

The boat "Lake Queen," built by boat builder Fred Ashbridge at his Blue Waters Ranch which was recently renamed "Dusty Waters Ranch," has been moved to Wilmington so that Fred can get in some ski practice.

He is at present preparing to take his annual ski run of 63 miles from Wilmington around Catalina Island on or near his 80th birthday, August 20.

The "Lake Queen" will be his tow boat and friends will do the piloting.

Many years ago, at the age of 15, Fred quit school and became a boat-builder's helper at Wilmington. His dream was to take a trip around the world on his own boat.

He became caretaker of the South Coast Yacht Club in 1904 and then skipper of the 48-foot racing yacht, Detroit, the fastest boat on the coast.

From there Fred went to Catalina Island to live, building fishing boats in the winter and tuna fishing in the summer.

In 1926 he moved to Wilmington and constructed a large boat shop, which is still operating today.

He moved to Elsinore in Junkleys to build

The first house to be built in Robin Hood Oaks subdivision number one, will be by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Junkley of Elsinore.

The property lies at the west end of Laguna on the southwest of Lake Elsinore and is partially in hill territory. The Junkleys chose a level lot but still have a view of what will be the lake.

Other Elsinore families who will be building on this subdivision in the future will be the Dick Connors, Roy Hoffmans and Jim Duffys, all of Elsinore.

Robin Hood Oaks as a place of habitation goes back to ancient times when Indians made it their home. While bulldozing the land artifacts were found and in the hills are Indian pictographs still intact and caves blackened by cooking fires of the Indians.

1947 and for six years has waited for the promised water in the lake so that he could water ski once more on Lake Elsinore.

L. A. Brick sells

On July 8, 1963 the Los Angeles Brick and Clay Products Company became and will operate as a Division of Pacific Clay Products.

Policies, services, quality of products, and personnel will continue the same as in the past, according to Robert G. Reordan, president.

As of August 1 the administrative offices will be combined with Pacific Clay Products at 1255 West Fourth Street in Los Angeles.

Strawberry Festival at Sun City

The Sun City Merchants Association will hold a Strawberry Festival on August 3. At the same time the official dedication of the new United States Post Office at Sun City will be made.

The post office was moved from Cherry Hills Boulevard to Bradley Road, and the new quarters about double the present floor space and the lock boxes are to be tripled for a new total of about 600. This will eliminate the waiting line at the old location.

The merchants will hold open house in the Shopping Center area between 2 and 5 p.m.

Patricia Ann Rehrig

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rehrig of Elsinore announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann to Ronald Milts, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Milts of Railroad Avenue in Elsinore.

Pat is a student at the Elsinore Union High School and Ronald is employed as a letterpressman at the Mayhall Print Shop in Elsinore.

The newly installed lights of Perris blazed brightly as the annual community Potato Festival celebration began on July 24.

Sixty-two new fixtures were recently purchased at a cost of approximately $48,000 and were placed at intervals along a full mile of business district roadway.

Pictured below are two of the workmen unloading the concrete poles from the Ralph Feil Company truck. The cost of the project is being borne by property owners who will benefit from the improvement.

"Tall" Turley, local businessman of Perris, holding one of the miniature potato men, looks like a midget himself alongside of the completed lighting fixture.

Mrs. Grace Richens has recently opened up a floral shop on Main Street in Elsinore and will specialize in all types of floral work. In front of Grace is a sample of the work being displayed in her shop.

CONTRIBUTED

It was the Fourth of July. All over the land the bells of freedom were tolling.

The beautiful chimes at the First Methodist Church in Elsinore were tolling a stately, inspiring tune. I listened—my memory going way back to another time and to another place. And as the half-forgotten tune returned to my consciousness the words came flooding back to me. Down through the years—out of a more peaceful past.

"Long may our land be bright with freedom's holy light; protect us by Thy might, Great God our King,"

As the slow, rhythmic tune spread out over the valley, other phrases came back to me: "Land of the noble free," "Author of liberty — Great God our King."

Always — all through the song, which is really a prayer—it was God who was associated with Life and Liberty; and with love of our country. That was the premise upon which this country was founded. That was America before someone decided that the teaching of God's word in the public schools was unconstitutional.

I learned to sing My Country 'Tis of Thee" in school. It wasn't much of a school house—just a little two-room frame structure consisting of four walls, an old pot-bellied wood stove, and a blackboard. But, thank God, I learned something in that school. I learned that prayer was something that children learned and practiced in their homes and in their schools. I learned about patriotism—that it is one of man's finest attributes. I learned that our country, which recognized God as its Head, was the greatest land on earth.

But on the last Fourth of July, as I listened to the solemn chimes, I was thinking also of a very recent Supreme Court ruling that forbade the recitation of The Lord's Prayer in School. I was thinking of a recent statement made by the president of the California Board of Education in which he warned that there would be trouble if any effort is made to teach "that patriotism stuff" in the public schools. Those were his words. I was thinking of the introduction into the public schools of pornographic literature under the guise of a dictionary of slang while prayer was being ruled out.

I was thinking of how sorry I am for the young people of today, and how grateful I am that I went to school at a time when we could pray to God and learn of our great heritage of patriotism.

But perhaps my thoughts were selfish. Surely the young people of today are entitled to as much as were the children of a half century ago.

The chimes at the First Methodist Church were dying out. The valley was more holy in its silence for having been filled with the stately tune. All that remained to me—and to many others like me—was to resolve that prayer and patriotism should be brought back into our schools so that the children of today, and the children of the future, could hand down to their children the same heritage that was handed down to us. ■

Cover the potato story in Perris

By DOLORES MAYHALL

Well, here it is, my first day on the job as active associate editor of La Laguna Revue. The publisher, who is my husband as well, left instructions to get a feature story on the potato harvesting, sorting and such in Perris Valley.

This really sounded like a snap, after all we eat potatoes almost every night of the week and it seemed that everyone you spoke with in the town of Perris talked potatoes, for that is one of the main sources of income for Perris Valley.

I called our photographer and we were soon on our way, wearing regular work clothes and three-inch heels, to "get the story."

First, we called on Robert J. Walker who is president and general manager of the M.S.W. Packing Shed in Perris for permission to take photos inside of the sheds. He granted permission and referred us to his assistant general manager, Harvey Goertzen. Now in order to talk with Harvey during the busy season you don't sit in an air-conditioned office and have a nice quiet conference over coffee. You walk, through the sheds, on the catwalks and between mounds of potatoes, boxes and sacks. All of this time you are asking questions to fill in your story, but at the same time other people are asking questions of Harvey, such as "How many trucks are in?" "Equipment down, what shall we do?", and then there is an intercom system that keeps squawking out the sad news that

Harvey is wanted in Shed One or that he is needed to answer the telephone.

Finally, Harvey told us we should go out into the fields, saying that that was the best place to begin our story. He called Robert Ashley, local farm labor contractor, on that squawk box, and informed him of our mission. Bob graciously agreed to assist us and we were then told to get into our car and follow any one of the empty trucks leaving the shed.

We were off on our first assignment! Behind the truck we went, over Perris Boulevard and down another paved road and at last we were headed toward open country.

This truck, No. 8, decided to take off down a dirt road—not just dirt, but sandy dirt. We couldn't see anything, even the truck, from the dust. By the time we drove half way up to the field we spotted another truck coming toward us on this one-lane trail, so I pulled off to the side of the road. Oh, yes, we bogged down in the sand. By then both Ruby, our photographer, and I were dirty, dusty and very disturbed, but we managed to work our way out of the sand and like good soldiers, moved forward.

We arrived where Bob Ashley was to meet us. He had been watching our progress up the lane and informed us that since there was only one trail to the field, we could have followed a mile behind the truck and we would never have gotten so dirty. (This choice bit of information, I filed away along with my resolution to always keep jeans and boots in the back of the station wagon.)

Our tour of the fields began. We were shown the digging machine. This piece of equipment digs the potatoes up from under the ground and lays them on top for the pickers to come by and scoop them into the sacks they carry attached to their waist.

As they fill a sack with potatoes they leave it to the side of them and go on to fill another sack. Pickers are paid per sack and an accounting of their work is done by a checker who walks up and down the rows, counts the sacks each picker has picked and credits their account with same.

Then we were introduced to the loading operation. The loader goes through the field beside an empty potato truck and is manned by three men. The man at the bottom of the loader sets the filled sacks on the ramp, they are then conveyed to the man at the top, who pulls the sacks from the potatoes and the loose potatoes are conveyed into the truck. The third man on the loading team is the driver of the loader and it is his job to keep up with the truck and the loading men.

Oh yes, how did we get around in that soft, sandy potato field for pictures? Why, with a "sand buggy." In this case Ruby got all the dust. Driving for her was Bob Church, and he gave her a ride she'll long remember. We were sent, by Mr. Ashley, from the field, back to the sheds to watch the full trucks unload.

When the loaded trucks arrive at the sheds they are driven into an enormous shower where the bed, potatoes and everything is sprayed with water.

From there the truck is driven to a dumping pit and the potatoes are

Sand buggy with Bob Church as driver dumped into the pit for another washing, then up the ramp on a conveyor belt go the loose potatoes, to be washed at least three more times and from there to be sponged off and dried. In the shed, conveyor belts go every which way and we even noticed one or two that worked as if they had red lights attached to them as they would stop if there was any interference whatsoever from another belt.

Finally the potatoes, white, dry and clean, went to the grading tables where under the watchful eyes of dozens of people they were graded. Some of them were thrown by the girls, under the main sorting table to another conveyor belt as rejects or culls. The other potatoes are sent down the table as number ones or number twos.

Most of them are put into sacks, which are accurately weighed on scales and the others are sent into what Harvey said was the 10-pounder section. Here the potatoes are weighed and dropped into 10-pound sacks, then sent on another conveyor belt to the stitching crew. A Federal Inspector is always on hand in the shed to make certain of the weight and that the correct grade of potato is going into each and every sack. In other words, if it says No. 1's on the outside of a sack, you can guarantee that is what's on the inside.

We then watched the potatoes being loaded into box cars for shipment all over the United States.

The summer season for potatoes runs from around June 20 to August 15 and the winter season from about the first of November until the first of March. No one has yet informed me what the people do during the six months they are off work. But if its planting, and the publisher wants a story on that, he can get it himself. ■

San Jacinto Wins Local Area Championship

Not in San Francisco, but in Elsinore

James Duffy

If you are heading for San Francisco, don't stop in Elsinore for you may end up not only being a resident but buying a business the way James Duffy of Davenport, Iowa, did.

It was on April 1, All-Fools Day, that Jim Duffy drove to Elsinore only to stop by and say hello to Jim Dietrich of the jewelry store on Main Street. Before the day was over he had made arrangements to buy the business.

Jim is so fond of the town he has not been out of it since that first day. He never even got to Frisco.

Jim is a watchmaker's watchmaker, a man who can build a watch from scratch, so to speak. This is a skill not many men can boast of. He learned his trade thirty years ago in Rock Island, Illinois, from a Swedish watchmaker. At the present time, Jim is calling his business Dietrich's Diamond Shop and although he will be selling all types of watches, costume jewelry and other items pertinent to a store of this type he intends to make diamonds his specialty.

He is married and the father of three children. His wife Isabella is at their former home in Iowa and is in the process of disposing of their former home. After the sale she will move to Elsinore and they will build their home on the property purchased by Jim in Robin Hood Acres.

Their son, Joseph, is at present a student at St. Ambrose College but has put in for a transfer to UCLA, where he will complete his studies to become a civil engineer.

Patricia, one of the daughters, lives with her family in Minneapolis, Minnesota, where her husband is a professor at the university located there.

Isabella, another daughter, lives with her family in Bettendorf, Iowa. Theresa, a dental assistant, lives with her parents and will move to Elsinore with her mother. ■

Home for boys to open in Elsinore

Jack L. Williams is establishing his own home and school for boys in Elsinore. The home will be called Lakeside Lodge and will open on or about August 15. Williams is the manager of the Waterflow Boys Ranch in San Jacinto, and for the Elsinore home he has purchased the 15-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Junkley on Ryan Street. He is building a swimming pool and basketball court and doing some remodeling.

Business manager for the school will be Williams' mother, Mrs. Charlotte Roden of Pomona.

A teacher for the younger boys will be hired and the older boys will go to the public schools.

The limit for the school will be 25 to 30 boys in the 13 to 16 age group. They will be divided into three groups with a counselor for each group.

Mr. Williams is a former insurance agent with his own agency in Pomona and Riverside.

He and his wife Darla and their children plan to build a home on McPherson Circle. ■

Mumphrey still raises herbs

Mumphrey with the clippers he uses to cut the herbs.

First raising herbs was his occupation and now it is his hobby. This is the best way to describe D. S. Mumphrey of Grand Avenue, Elsinore.

In the early twenties Mumphrey began the Mumphrey's Fruits, Vegetable and Herb business in Los Angeles. He and his wife, who passed away in August of 1962, raised and sold, in their own store as well as door to door, all of their own produce and herbs.

In 1944 when the Mumphreys retired from their business and moved to Elsinore because the climatic conditions for the raising of herbs was ideal, they purchased a double lot on Grand Avenue and, this time as a hobby, raised marporan, thyme, oregano, sage, bay leaves and many more herbs. His specialty was, and still is, a mixture of the herbs for the flavoring of Italian spaghetti sauce.

Although out of business these past 19 years and only raising herbs on a small scale, his regular customers of many years prevent him from abandoning the business altogether. He receives orders from former customers, many of whom now live in far eastern states, for his herbs and mainly for his spaghetti mix.

In 1942 the late Mrs. Mumphrey edited "Mumphrey's Cook Book. Mr. Mumphrey said that so many of the customers would come into the store to buy fruits and vegetables and then they would need the recipe on how to prepare what they had purchased. This proved to be so time consuming that Mrs. Mumphrey decided to write a cook book with their canning and cooking recipes and then when a customer wanted a particular recipe they would sell the book to them for $1.00 and go back to work.

Mr. Mumphrey has one son who is a price estimator for a printing company in Shreveport, Louisiana. His daughter-in-law Myrtle, is a nurse in a clinic for children in the same town. Myrtle is a great user of herbs and has proved to be Mr. Mumphrey's best customer. ■

As well as herbs, Mumphrey has a fine collection of flowers.

'Pops' Gregory celebrates 80 years

Met Walter R. Gregory, better known as "Pops" on the streets of Elsinore. Baseball catcher, football player, amateur fighter, actor, acrobat, call boy on the railroad, brakeman, yard master, fireman, engineer, printer's devil and, on top of it all, a two time hero.

Pops was born August 6, 1883 and this month marks his eightieth birthday. It would be near impossible to list all of Pops' talents. As he once said: "There's nothing I can't do" and he just about proved it during the past 80 years.

Pops spent most of his life with the railroads in the middle west before coming to Los Angeles and later to Elsinore.

Pops was one of a family of five boys and four girls and is the sole survivor with the exception of two sisters, Mrs. C. W. Richards of Elsinore and Mrs. J. K. Wagner of Alameda.

When a young man he saved the lives of two persons who had fallen in the Missouri River and was in line for a hero's medal but passed the opportunity with "I don't want a medal—I'd do the same for anybody."

Few men have crammed more activity into 80 years than has Pops. When he lived across the lake in Lakeland Village he was the handy man of the village. He could do anything, fix anything, play any part in a show and make such good potato salad that he became known as the Potato Salad King and was called upon to make the salad for most big events taking place in the village.

Pops' first love was the railroads. His father was an engineer for 50 years and Pops' dream was to follow in his footsteps.

When World War I came along he tried to enlist but Pops took second prize in the Diamond Jubilee Parade in Elsinore, cast as the Village Blacksmith.

Pops also does a little farming in his back yard between pictures.

Making toy windmills used to be one of Pops' hobbies and he made 'em free for his friends.

an injury to his foot suffered while a brakeman caused him to be rejected and after a number of attempts to get overseas, even to the point of applying for a job attending a boat load of army mules, he gave up and stayed with the railroad.

He arrived in Los Angeles during the depression and worked for a time at the Los Angeles Union Produce Terminal but was retired when he reached 65

Pearl Brown sponsors a picnic

It was July Fourth and, as is customary on this national holiday, all members of the local art colony head for the home of Pearl Brown, high on the Ortega, because it is not only a national holiday but it is Pearl's 81st birthday.

The affair was in the nature of a potluck picnic with the table set a hundred yards or so to the rear of Pearl's house in a secluded spot in the heavily wooded canyon. Some forty or fifty persons were on hand for the lunch but guests were arriving at all hours during the afternoon so probably a hundred or more checked in before nightfall, to pay their respects to this talented artist.

Many of the members of the artist colony brought along some of their latest art creations for inspection but Pearl herself had enough paintings on hand to keep the crowd busy.

Pearl, in addition to being a fine artist, has a keen sense of humor and her humor crops out in many of her paintings. Her studio is open daily and is well worth a visit.

Happy birthday, Pearl, and many more of them. See you next July Fourth. ■

Even the outhouse at the picnic grounds is decorated with one of Pearl's masterpieces. This one is "The Tramp." The artist stands beside her work.

The four colorful figures in the front row are: Ora Lyons, Pearl Brown, Grace Baumgardner and Esther Clapp. Grace Baumgardner and Esther Clapp.

It was a hot day and we couldn't get the group out of the shade for this shot. Most of the crowd is hidden in the rear.

The up and coming material in boat building

"Cruising Down the River" in a Crest Craft Sport Runabout" will be the theme song being sung by Steele Rawlins and Clayton Brewer of Perris.

These energetic young men decided to go into the manufacturing of boats, and not just any boat but one of fiber glass.

About two months ago Steele and Clayton bought the Tarpley Boat plans and their molds, set them up in the back of the Perris Valley Hardware Store on D Street and began on their first boat.

First, they decide on what color the boat will be and into the mold goes the special paint. Then begins the 4-ply layer of fiber glass, which is carefully placed in the mold. On top of this goes what appears to be heavy, loose-woven burlap, and then more paint. Finally the whole thing is turned loose from the mold, and you have it, a Crest Craft.

Now, this sounds easy, and if you could watch the men doing their work it looks easy too!

But there is more to boat-building than this. Each and every part of the product must fit perfectly, as the boat, like all boats, must be water-tight. It seats four, and is the ideal runabout for water skiing or a fast ride over the water at about fifty miles per hour. The Crest Craft is only fourteen feet long and weighs just under 300 pounds.

Clayton Brewer giving the Crest Craft a trial run on Lake Nacimiento. Fiber glass being placed into the mold by the workmen.

Steele and Clayton are moving all of the molds and equipment necessary for this venture to the old B & B Packing Shed in Perris and will hire approximately four employees to construct these boats. At present time they are strictly a wholesale outfit and are in the process of putting on dealers.

Clayton Brewer is the owner and operator of the Perris Valley Hardware and is married with two sons, David, an Arlington resident, and Stephen, a member of the United States Air Force, stationed at Oxnard Air Force Base.

Steele is the owner and operator of Rawlins Chevron Service located on the corner of D and 4th streets in Perris and is also a married man.

Girl Friday for the Elsinore Chamber of Commerce

Beverly Lepper

Beverly Lepper, new secretary for the Lake Elsinore Valley Chamber of Commerce, is the original "Girl Friday" for not only the chamber but for several other businesses being run from the office.

Secretary for the chamber of commerce sounds like an easy job, and to see Beverly handle it, one might think it is. But what the general public does not realize is that a chamber and its secretary cover a multitude of duties, as well as representing your valley.

The secretary takes care of all correspondence regarding questions about Elsinore Valley. She is the one who answers your telephone queries and takes care of "walk-in traffic," as the expression goes.

When one needs a motel, cafe, a reliable business man in some particular field, it is up to Beverly to supply the information to the person who is in need.

Beverly keeps books for the chamber, attends all of the directors' meetings (held on the third Monday of each month and open to the public), she writes the minutes of the meeting and keeps all of her bosses, the directors, informed as to what has taken place during the previous month.

On the first Monday of each month Beverly takes the minutes of the Lake Elsinore Valley Recreation and Park District board.

When boys reach the age of eighteen, they must register for the draft, and again Beverly handles this department.

The Chamber office also houses, on the second and fourth Thursday of each month from 9 to 12 a.m.,

Social Security representatives, and on Tuesdays the California Motor Vehicle Department holds office there so that one may secure his driver's licence and register his automobile. On the first Wednesday of each month a veterans' representative may be consulted between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

Beverly is also available for mimeographing and typing for various organizations and business houses. This service adds a little money to the chamber treasury.

She is the mother of two boys and is married to Jake Lepper, who is well known for his work with the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Old railroads never die, they just lose their ties

The final scene . . . the ties of the Santa Fe Railroad Avenue line being hauled away

The Santa Fe Railway, on its Elsinore branch, has recently completed the removal of rails and ties from the San Jacinto River west to the crossing over Railroad Avenue.

This line of about a mile, situated east of the Elsinore Santa Fe station, was no longer useful to the company.

Last winter the stock yards, where cattle for the Vail Company ranch were unloaded, were removed and rebuilt at Perris. Vail now trucks its cattle from Perris to its ranch near Temecula, where in the past it had trucked from the Elsinore stockyards, located on Railroad Avenue.

Originally Elsinore was on the line of the California Southern Railway built in 1882. It ran from Colton via Perris, through Railroad Canyon to Elsinore Junction, just east of the San Jacinto River. There it turned south through the towns of Murrieta and Temecula and on to San Diego.

During 1884, about 60 inches of rain fell in Elsinore Valley and washed the railroad away and in 1891 heavy rains again caused a great deal of damage to the lines. The Elsinore line washed into the lake and was rebuilt about a year later. This left Elsinore on a branch line out of San Bernardino ending in Temecula instead of being on the main route to San Diego.

The year 1927 saw more rain and the abandonment of the line between Perris and Elsinore. In the meantime the main line had been rerouted from San Bernardino to San Diego via Corona and Fullerton and then the Alberhill-Corona tracks were laid to connect the Elsinore branch.

Due to lack of funds the California Southern sold its holdings in the railway to the Santa Fe Company.

And here we are once more, in 1963, but this time there are no rains to wash out the tracks laid some 80 years ago, just lack of use and the well-known word "Progress."

The tracks are removed as far as the Mobil Bulk Plant located on Railroad Avenue, and the rest of the branch line is, at present, left intact.

Freight trains still come to Elsinore though. They bring lumber for the lumber yards, coke for the foundry, and numerous other kinds of freight. The trains carry out clay and gas logs. ■

HIDE YOUR ROCKS!

Here comes Kriegh

This is the story of Kenneth Kriegh, pronounced "Cree," creator of shrines, waterfalls, fireplaces, rock gardens and any conceivable item that could possibly be built with stone, rock and cement.

Ken's interest in rocks and the art of landscaping did not begin when he was a young man, but it started during the depression, when as a lad of 15 years he would sit in his yard and design small rock gardens to surround his mother's collection of flowers. His father did not entirely approve of Ken's decorations nor of his wasting time in this fashion, but it made his mother happy to have the only rock-garden lawn in their town.

Ken spent his school years in Pomona and that is where, as he grew older, his interest in rocks and what he could do with them increased. He began to create beauty with natural resources, to utilize them in artistic arrangements in combination with plants, pottery and statuary.

Time passed and Ken's reputation as a landscape specialist grew. He was called to design a private garden for Jane Withers as a gift from her parents on her sixteenth birthday. The rock garden entrance to the hotel at Soboba Hot Springs was another of his creations.

In 1953 Ken won first prize for his outdoor living room, which he entered in the patio division at the Los Angeles County Fair.

He was also awarded first prize in patios at the National Orange Show in 1952.

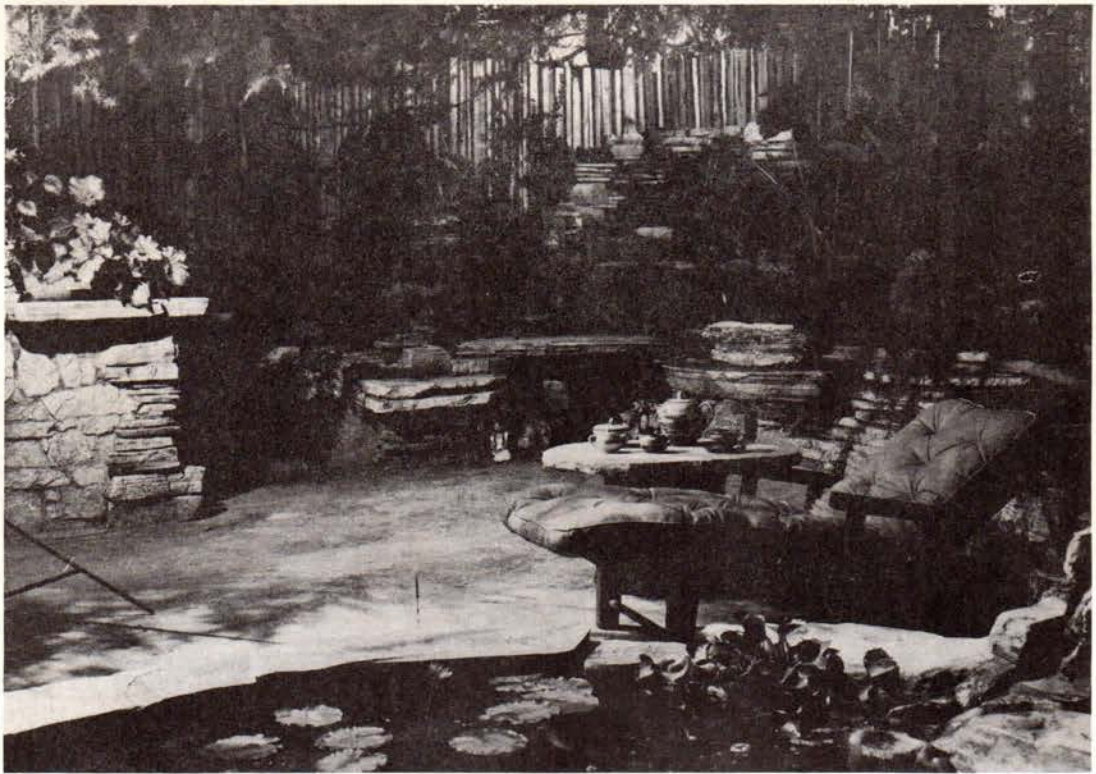

But one does not have to go to a fair or to Jane Withers' home to see the work of Mr. Kriegh. Attend the Ramona Pageant, and as you walk from the rock fountain, you will acquaint yourself with the work of this gentleman, for he and he alone did the stone work. Or if you should go to San Jacinto, visit the museum and there again is the master touch of Kenneth Kriegh.

Ken, his wife Ruth and their dog Karl live on Waldren Road in Menifee. They have lived in that home two years, but the property already has the Kriegh look. As one drives through the gate on the right there is a tremendous rock of cement. This is a strange sight to behold, as all around the acreage are mountains, but as Ken explained he wanted a mountain of his own and since there was none available, he is creating one.

In the back yard is a wonderland of water fountains situated under gigantic oaks that suggests the ultimate in restful woody relaxation. As one looks down from the rock patio, one can see the pond, where ducks swim at their leisure and water cascades down in a continuous stream from the numerous fountains that the Krieghs have erected.

Each fountain is so designed that the water wends its way in and out of various rock designs, over the rare plants and eventually finds its way to the pond.

And how did the Krieghs happen to find this secluded home under the oaks? Well, here's his story, in his own words:

"One morning I arose early and went into the kitchen for breakfast. My wife wasn't up and it seemed she had no intention of getting up. So I went outside for the daily paper and it wasn't there. I got into the car and drove to Elsinore for breakfast. While eating, Joe Bussell, another customer at the time, asked if anyone was interested in buying a place in the hills. I was already in debt as far as I should have been, but right then, disgusted with my wife, the paper boy and the world in general, I deecided that this was what I needed, a recluse. Joe and I drove to Menifee Valley, up the dirt road that I later learned was Waldren Road and we negotiated. That day, I knew I had found "Kriegh's Indian Spring Ranch."

Well, that's the story of an interesting man, with an occupation that is not only his vocation but his avocation.

If you have ever dreamed of an oriental garden, a waterfall, miniature fireplace or full-size barbecue, call Mr. Kriegh. Call him, in fact, even if you don't want one, make arrangements to meet at his home, then sit in the most fantastic rock-heaven of all and take it easy for an hour or two. The rest and quiet will make you feel wonderful. ■

Two officers of the Phi Delta Alpha parliamentary group of Elsinore were given a surprise birthday party Friday, June 28, with each of the two honorees thinking the party was to honor the other.

The two honored members were Mrs. Grayce Junkley, funder of the group, and Mrs. Mabel Misner, past president and instructor of the group.

The affair was held at the ranch home of Mrs. Garey Carr in Murrieta.

The guests presented Mrs. Junkley with a money tree with the admonition to purchase something for her new home at Robin Hood Oaks, where she will move early this month.

Mrs. Misner presented an antique cut glass dish.

Guests were: Mrs. Marion Smith, Mrs. Gerry Hillis, Mrs. Betty Hindman, Mrs. Ramona Salisbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Elder, Mrs.

Fleda Davis, Mrs. Virginia Nelson, Mrs. Marguerite Enochs, Mrs. Carolyn Conley, Mrs. Grace Baumgardner, Mrs. Vesta Bennett,

Mrs. Della Clark, Mrs. Gertrude Flyte, Mrs. Bertha Page, Mrs. Hazel Gregory, Mrs. Pearl Beach and Mrs. Betty James. ■

Grayce reads her birthday cards as guests look on. Mrs. Misner seated at far end of table. Note the Money tree in front of Mrs. Junkley.

Some random thoughts by a guy on an alleged vacation who is finding time to give a little thought to our future:

IS IT COMING TO THIS?

Darling 512-14-7963:

Just a few lines to let you know we are still in 92362. There's nothing new in the old town, although we did get four new fire-plugs last month which puts us in a class with 90003, I guess. How are things in Zip 90028?

I saw 417-14-8326 the other day, (you probably remember her as Nellie Jones) and what do you know? She's going to get married! You recall she used to go with 322-16-7728 but they broke up when he married 428-12-9922 and she turned her affections to 815-11-2733. Well, he seems like a nice fellow and I think they are really in love. The girls in 92362 gave 417-14-8326 a shower last week and there was quite a turn-out. Among the guests whom you should remember were: 513-18-6626, 422-20-7272, 411-24-5875, 61920-4411 and 712-19-2842 (she's that pretty blond who always tried to steal our boy friends, remember? She's married now to a fellow named 562-24-7727. He's much older than she is and I never see them at the dances. She calls him 562 for short.)

I hope everything turns

Wedding date set

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shulze of Galloping 4 Legs Arabian Ranch in Perris, have announced the engagement of their daughter Rebecca Shulze to Mr. Anthony Porto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Porto of Anaheim.

out well for 417-14-8326. She's a good girl and deserves a break. She is a little upset, however. They haven't set the wedding date and 815-11-2733 has a crazy idea he'd like to take a trip to the moon before he settles down, and 417-14-8326 is worried no end.

Write when you find time and give my regards to 644-29-1718 when you see him.

In the July issue of La Laguna Revue we wrote a story about M. D. "Bingo" Haskell leaving his Richfield Service Station business in Elsinore to take the position of Sales and Service Manager for the Hodges Ford Agency on North Main Street.

One of our readers called us on the carpet and asked what this "Bingo" person looked like, so we got in touch with our little girl photographer, rushed to Hodges, stopped the sale of a fleet of Fords, and here we are with a shot of Bingo.

Are you a happy reader now, Mr. Henry Ford?

Comes the Galloping Four

Galloping 4 Legs Arabian Ranch, located on the outskirts of Perris just off of Highway 74, promises to be a ranch that will cause great interest, now and in the future.

Owner-operator Bette Shulze has only been working with horses for the past seven years. She, along with her husband Earl and their daughter Rebecca moved to the valley late in May from their former location in La Puente.

At present, Mrs. Shulze has eight head of horses and two foals, all purebred Arabian. Each of the horses is trained by Mrs. Shulze for show work.

One of the horses in the Shulze stables is Sanam, which was the beginning of Mrs. Shulze's line of horses. Sanam was an outlaw horse of 12 years when he was purchased. He was broken to ride and to be driven and in the five years that Sanam was in the show ring he captured 176 ribbons and 34 trophies, which is quite an honor for his trainer.

Another horse in the Shulze stables is Razel, an eleven year old stallion which, when obtained by Mrs. Shulze, was used to nothing but a halter. The only comment that Mrs. Shulze had to make about Razel was that he was "neurotic."

But neurotic or not, after six weeks under the capable hands of Bette, Razel went out to his first show and brought her home one second place and two third place ribbons.

Karmain was another horse that could not be handled by its previous owner, but leave it to Bette, she took Karmain, let her know she could pull a buggy and that was all she needed to bring home more ribbons in one year than one could count.

Now the Shulzes' have one other item of interest around the Galloping 4, and this is Suzzette, and please, she is a chimpanzee, not a monkey. Suzzette is the official mascot for the entire ranch and is just three years old. She was sent to Bette from a friend in the Belgian Congo and when she arrived in the States was not exactly on the sociable side. In fact it took five days just to get near Suzzette.

But the little one settled down to civilization, she now sleeps in a baby bed, eats her food from the table while sitting in her highchair, using a fork and spoon no less, and is very much on the modest side . . . Suzzette wears clothes.

The ranch is a fine place to visit and according to Bette, all who are interested in seeing an outlaw horse or an educated little girl, named Suzzette, stop out and visit with them. ■

Becky, driver of the buggy with Karmain. This combination spent one year in the winners' circle.

In the backyards of Perris

The American National Red Cross Backyard Swim Program of Riverside County was considered a huge success in Perris Valley due to the combined efforts of the many people involved.

Credit goes to local resident Elizabeth Savage who is Water Safety Chairman for the Perris Branch. Mrs. Savage organized the program for the two hundred and four children who took part in the swimming lessons. She not only arranged for the use of pools, but for instructors and their aids.

Assisting Mrs. Savage was Mrs. Ruth Mills, who put forth a great deal of time and energy on the project.

Safety instructors for the course along with Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Mills were Mary Lee VonNordeck, Sue Rahn and Karen Bell. Water Safety Aids were Betty Shouse, Jean Mills, Dorothy Evans, Joyce Gregg, Beverly Heidanus and Joan Suttinger, physical education instructor at the Perris Junior High School.

These women devoted their time, at no cost, teaching the youngsters to swim in the pools donated for this purpose by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sudik, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Scott, Dr. Richard Blowers, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Larsen and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stein.

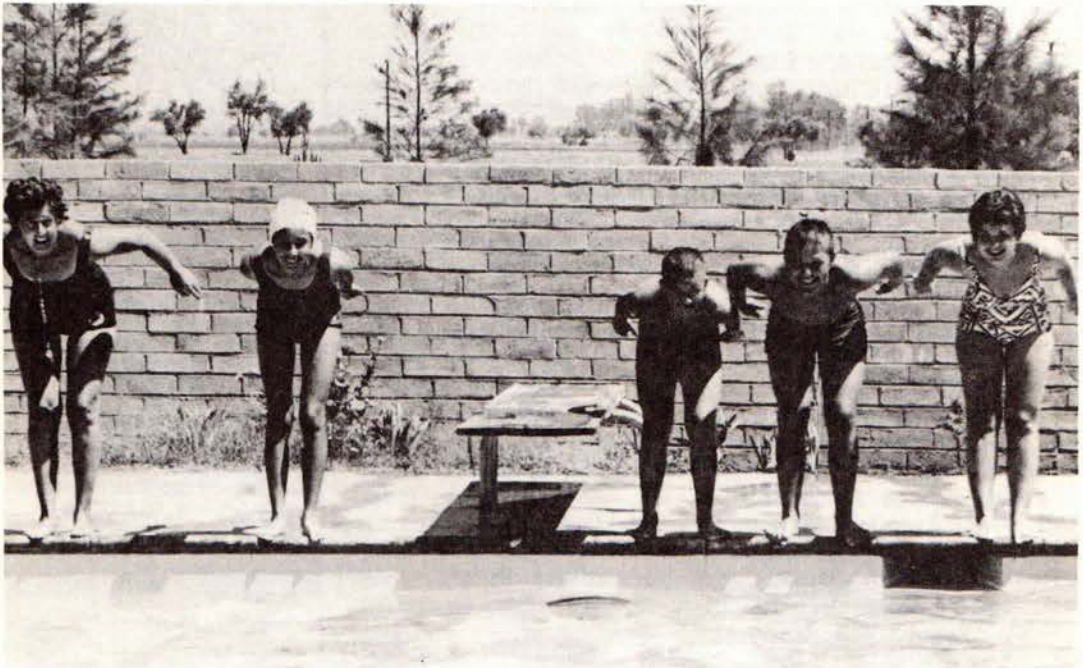

In the past years, pools in the Nuevo and Lakeview area were used through the courtesy of Robert Walker, Hazel Youngstrom, Ruth Randolph and Bob O'Donnell. Again another group of citizens.

Out of the 204 children who received these free instructions, 46 received beginners cards, 28 advanced beginner cards and 11 intermediate cards, a total of 85 Red Cross swimming cards issued in one week.

John Montes and Ginney Villoves are working for their Junior Life Saving Cards while Louis Montes and Penny Risher are working towards their Senior Life Saving Emblems. In order to receive these emblems one must complete a seventeen hour course.

Water safety instruction renewal cards were given to Mrs. Bell and Mrs. VonNordeck.

John Kraft is the First Aid and Water Safety Chairman for Riverside County and he assisted Mrs. Savage in getting this original program set up. ■

The Penny Powers Summer Wife-Savers Calectric Living Show was held Tuesday, July 9 at the Elsinore Woman's Club. The purpose of the show was to demonstrate the many time-saving devices in the electrical appliance field available to the modern woman. Marjorie Helm, home service advisor, conducted the demonstration. She was assisted by Mrs. Elaine Burroughs, Elsinore home economist and C. E. Kiefer, residential sales agent, did honors as master of ceremonies.

Sponsor of the show was California Electric Power Company and co-sponsors were the Alamo Market, Elsinore Public Market, Elsinore Pharmacy, John's Furniture, Elsinore Firestone Dealer Store, Meadowbrook Market, M & M Market on Grand Avenue, Farmer's Market, Ortega Oaks Market, Sunshine Ranch Market, Lakeland Vista Market and Burnham's Market.

Prizes of small appliances and boxes of groceries were won by Mrs. B. C. James, Cecile Mansfield, D. Redding, Mrs. John T. O'Connor, Mrs. Armin Brenner, Rose Cooper, Goldie Levy and Lillian M. Paul.

For the information of all readers: Penny Powers visits us in the Laguna Revue now and then. In fact, in this issue she has her column and it is one of the finest for household tips I have seen in ages. She gives advice on spot removal, clothes dryers and anything else that may be of an aid to the housewife. Be certain to look for her column and read it. She may just happen to have the answer to a particular problem of yours. —D.M. ■

VETERANS COLUMN

By CHRISTINE WRIGHT

The Bible said it long ago:
"Who will prepare himself for the battle if the trumpet sounds an uncertain note?"—
1 Cor. 14:8.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars held their 43rd annual Department Convention, the Auxiliary their 39th, in Fresno from June 25th to the 29th. Seven delegates from Elsinore's Post 1508 and Auxiliary attended: Post Commander Henry Alonzo, his wife Concha, Auxiliary president; Past Commander Cassie Jones, his wife Lorraine, Past Auxiliary President; Benjamin and Rita Madrigal and Christine Wright.

In Fresno's beautiful Memorial Auditorium the evening of the 25th, Memorial services were held for the 669 Comrades from 525 Posts in California who answered the final call this past year. Lt. Col. Harlan D. Morris, USAR, Chief Protestant Chaplain, V. A. Hospital, gave the memorial address. On the platform was the West Fresno Community Choir, made up of members of Negro church choirs in Fresno, as well as the Soul Savers Quartet. June 27th, the Auxiliary held their memorial service for 225 sisters. Ruby Godbey, Past National President, gave the memorial address.

Wednesday morning, the

highlight of the convention, a banquet and ball were held in the Rainbow Ballroom. National Commander Byron B. Gentry was guest of honor and speaker at this commanders' dinner which honored Department Commander H. W. Straley of Lynwood and Department President of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Irene Hoffman of Gardena, attended by over 600 VFW and Auxiliary members. There were eleven District Commanders chosen as "outstanding" in the state, and the Commander-of-the-Year came from the 11th District, John B. Howard from Selma, who will receive a trip to the National Convention to be held in Seattle August 23-30.

The delegates heard Dr. Max L. Rafferty, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. For Dr. Rafferty's work in attempting to bring teaching of patriotism into public schools, he was presented a VFW Citizenship Medal by Department Commander H. W. Straley.

Two trophies, three pins and many citations were received by Elsinore's Post 1508. The Auxiliary presented achievement awards in fifteen fields, 2nd District receiving four and Auxiliary 1508 receiving three. At the July 1st business meeting in Elsinore, these trophies, pins, citations and achievement awards were on display in the lobby of the Veterans' Memorial Hall, fairly covering one dining table.

Walter W. Thompson of Turlock was elected and installed Department Commander for 1963-1964 and Mrs. Raymond L. Marwick of Redding for Department President. In 1964 the VFW Convention for the Department will be held in Long Beach. ■

*Electric Ranges and Planned Kitchens...
 Summer Fruit Desserts*

ELECTRIC RANGES. This summer your electric appliance dealer will have a big smile and a big pleasant reception for you. The reason: there's a summertime electric range promotion beginning June 15. And it will be in your favor!

All of the leading brands are in this summer accent on cool, flameless electric cooking. And they have much to offer, principally in the variety of up-to-the-minute automatic features. It will be worth your while to shop around, study and compare the various brands of electric ranges, and then match them against your own needs.

Yours may be the kind of family that prefers foods cooked on a rotisserie, or on an automatic grill. Or you may have a family that sometimes finishes work at different times, so that the evening meal is delayed. Well, there's an electric range which will keep dinner hot as long as you need.

The prices of these ranges vary widely to fit all budgets and there's a large choice of models and colors in both free-standing and built-in ranges. Think about it. This may be just the summer you'll want to change over to cool, convenient, easy and automatic flameless electric cooking.

THINK ABOUT THIS, too! When you make the change to flameless electric cooking, you may want a built-in because it could help you re-arrange your cupboard space and add more.

If you would like help in planning your kitchen arrangement around a built-in, just ask at your nearest Cal-electric office. They'll give you hints on storage planning and "activity centers" which might be useful to you.

SUMMER FRUIT DESERTS will be in order from now on and here's a pair you'll want to try.

1. Scoop the insides from a half watermelon, using a melon ball scoop if you like. Add to the watermelon, other kinds of melon balls, fresh berries, and sliced bananas. Serve chilled in the watermelon shell, after topping with frosted white grapes.

2. Place peach halves in serving dishes. Drizzle with port wine. Beat an egg white stiff, then beat in 1/4 cup of mint or currant jelly. Top peaches with meringue and chopped nuts.

INDIAN HILLS, ENCHANTED HEIGHTS AND FRONTIER VILLAGE

Just a name until now...

Indian Hills, Enchanted Heights and Frontier Village were just signs on the highway to me until recently, when I cornered Keith Krug in his Perris Land Company office and started asking a multitude of questions concerning the projects behind the names.

He offered to give me a complete, guided tour of the "reservation" so that I could actually see all there was to see.

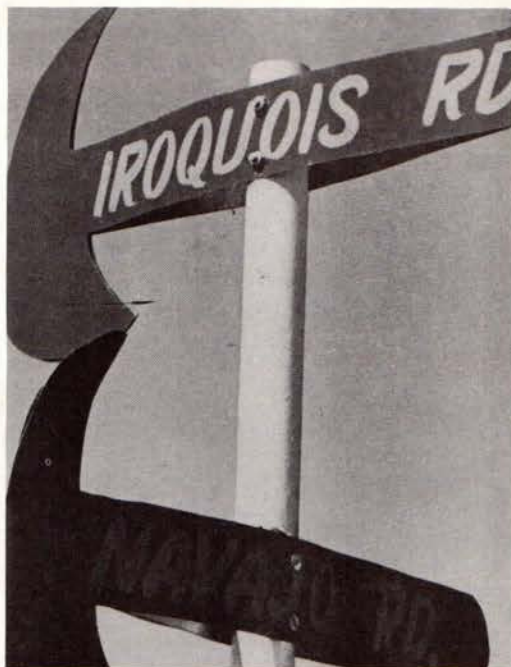

Being developed simultaneously with the Indian Hills project is Frontier Village, which will be primarily for horse owning families. It will have its own working blacksmith shop, livery stable and general store. Each homesite in the village will be 2½ acres and the lots will be bisected with streets and bridle paths. Cost of homes will range in the neighborhood of $20,000.

This is really a unique way of living. Next Sunday, drive over to the northwest section of Perris and turn in at the sign that says Indian Hills and see for yourself what a wonderful, restful life the residents of that area do live. Not only are the trailers interesting to see but the overall view is marvelous.

Again I thank you, Mr. Krug, for this opportunity you afforded me. — Dolores. ■

Entering the curved driveway is the tract sales office on the left and the beginning of our trip through the hills.

Typical of the sign posts in the new combination trailer and conventional housing tract. They are shaped like a tomahawk and each street will carry an Indian name, such as the one pictured

Vacation bound

Ellen Mary Comstock and Leah Gardner left International Airport on June 16th for a Pan-American guided tour of England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Italy, Egypt, Greece and many other countries.

Leah, owner and operator of Leah's Beauty Shop on Riverside Drive in Elsinore, will return to the States on July 30. Ellen Mary will fly to Tanganyika, in East Africa, where she will join her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Tracy Comstock, and her brother Galen.

She will return with her brother the latter part of August. The Comstock seniors will remain in East Africa for a couple of months.

Ellen Mary is a student at Pacific Union College in Angwin near San Francisco, where she is studying to become a teacher. ■

Boy did we goof!

In the July issue of La Laguna Revue we misinformed all of our readers on the Lake Elsinore State Park's camping facilities. The story should have been that the State Park gets new name and at present there will be no changes in the camping.

Apparently Mr. Carr was looking forward to his vacation so much that he wanted the entire park to himself during the sunset and evening hours, because he stated that picnickers will be welcome there but there would be no overnight campers.

Here is the true (I hope) story on the State Park:

Lake Elsinore State Park has been classified as Lake Elsinore State Recreation Area. In the new classification of state parks, a recreation area has one primary purpose, that of recreation.

To have the designation "State Park," a park must have more than one purpose, such as historical or scenic.

The change in the classification of Elsinore will not at present effect its administration or operation. We still have Lyle Watson as supervisor and Walter Palmer as assistant supervisor. Lloyd Childers

On bended knee, I ask forgiveness for this blunder, and will all of you good readers please go to the park and spend the night? ■

ENMS largest summer session . .

President Colonel G. R. Conklin reported the largest student enrollment in the 1963 Summer Session. There are eighty students in the secondary division, grades 7-12, and forty students in grades one through six.

Students have three purposes in attending the six-weeks summer session:

1. To complete college preparatory subjects and reduce the total number of subjects during the regular academic year;

2. To remove subject deficiencies which had not been taken in the freshman or sophomore year of high school.

3. To remove grade point or scholastic deficiencies in order to have a "B" average in all college preparatory subjects for college admission after high school graduation.

In addition the summer session is ideal for study and recreation. Classes are scheduled five days each week on Tuesday through Saturday between eight and twelve noon. The afternoons are for recreation, sports and swimming. Each Monday the cadets are transported by school bus to San Clemente Beach for enjoyable games and swimming.

Colonel Conklin concluded by announcing that the enrollment for the fall semester has already reached an all-time high. "Students and their parents are reminded to complete the fall registration before August 15, 1963, if they expect to have the subjects which they need and desire for the coming year," emphasized President Conklin. ■

Cadets participating in many . . . and varied activities

Cadet Commanding Officer for the 1963 Summer Session, Lt. Mark Koeckritz, was interviewed and questioned about the interests and participation of the summer school cadets. Lt. Koeckritz stated that many cadets were participating in more and varied activities this session than any time before. The first activity on their preference list is still the school regulation size swimming pool. It is being used during the day and at night by student groups before taps, concluded Mark Koeckritz. ■

Peggy Lee Tanner recites vows

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Frederickson Jr.
(the former Peggy Lee Tanner)

Miss Peggy Lee Tanner became the bride of William E. Frederickson Jr. on Saturday, June 15 when their wedding was solemnized by Benjamin Bowering in the Los Angeles Latter-day Saints Temple.

Miss Tanner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaVoir S. Tanner of Elsinore, chose for her wedding a gown of imported lace over bridal taffeta, which she designed and made for herself. The fitted bodice of imported lace had a high scalloped neckline embroidered in seed pearls and sequins, and traditional long pointed sleeves. The skirt was colonial bouffant in design with cascading scalloped ruffles made of lace over bridal taffeta. The scalloped bouffant over skirt swept into a chapel train. A veil of bridal illusion was caught to a crown of seed pearls and sequins.

Her pearl necklace was a gift from the groom and her "something blue," a garter made by her grandmother.

The bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by stephanotis.

Jessica Finnell and Mary

Jo Nicolai were bridesmaids and they were identically gowned in sheaths of canary bridal taffeta featuring scalloped hemlines. They carried colonial bouquets of feathered carnations in mint green.

Richard Salazar served as best man and Becky Tanner, cousin of the bride, and Pamela Barnes served as flower girls. Their gowns were mint green bridal taffeta with white accessories and they carried baskets of feathered carnations of canary yellow.

Mother of the bride wore a beige lace sheath and mother of the groom wore apricot lace. Both wore orchid corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The refreshment table was centered with a four-tiered cake topped with the traditional bride and groom. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Howard Brereto of Proto, Utah, an aunt of the bride.

Attending the refreshment table were Mrs. Breton, Mrs. Frank Kaser and Mrs. Grant Tanner, another aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Heber J. Reed, grandparents of the bride, were in charge of the guest book. Sherry and Douglas Kaser were in charge of opening and displaying the gifts. Caroline Kaser distributed the thank you scrolls.

The young couple will make their home in Provo, Utah, where they will attend Brigham Young University. ■

Wedding vows for Carol and Michael

Well, we knew that sooner or later it was gonna happen, and it did. Carol Louise Aytes is now Mrs. Michael Edward Anderson.

We don't know when this thing started but we do know that on June 22, 1963 both Carol and Michael stood before Rev. Daniel Wagner, and some 150 invited guests in the Elsinore First Baptist Church and said "I do" to all the questions asked.

In case you didn't already know, Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Cook of Bundy Canyon and Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson of North Ridge, California.

Our lady readers will undoubtedly want to know what the bride wore, so here it is: a full length chantilly lace gown, long sleeved, scalloped neck, and a slight train.

She carried a bunch of white orchids and stefonets.

Her other attendants were Jacqueline Wolffer and Janice King and they wore long sleeved nylon organza, round necks, pearl necklace, matching pink shoes, hat and pink carnation bouquets.

Richard Anderson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man at the affair, and Sanford Geuss, Charles Aytes and Ronald Aytes served as ushers.

Carol is a graduate of Elsinore High School, spent two years at San Fernando State College and is a member of California Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Michael graduated from Notre Dame High School and will graduate as an English Major next year from San Fernando State College. He is a member of the track team. Mike also attended Pierce College one year.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Einboden
the former Pattie Jean Smith

Pattie Jean Smith and Alan Einboden exchanged solemn vows of marriage on Saturday, May 11, in the Elsinore Methodist Church. Dr. Herschel Hedgpeth of the La Mesa Methodist Church performed the ceremony for these two young people the same as he had done for Pattie Jean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Smith, on January 15, 1938, in the Magnolia Community Church of Burbank. Dr. Hedgpeth is a cousin of Willard's.

The family traditional wedding piece "Love Shall Guide Thee" was played by Mrs. Don Hales at the organ. Alice and Mary Ann Nollsch sang "A Wedding Prayer."

The bride's gown was a full, floor-length dress of white nylon, with embroidered organdy, traditional long sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. A coronet of crystal and pearl held in place the elbow-length veil of bridal illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of roses with an orchid nestled in the center.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Charles Smith, matron of honor, and Elizabeth and Dianne Smith, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their gowns, which were made by the bride's mother, were of baby blue satin with tulle headpieces.

Kelly Hales, daughter of Lynn and Don Hales of Elsinore, was the flower girl.

Best man was Charles Smith, brother of the bride, and Gary Washburn and Larry Hedgpeth served as ushers.

The chancel was made beautiful with the wedding appointments of the golden treen style candelabra and two bouquets fashioned in fan-shaped containers framing the kneeling bench in the center. Large white bows adorned the ends of the pews.

The newlyweds motored to Monterey for their honeymoon and are now at home to their friends at 3885 Shasta Street in San Diego. Alan is a member of the United States Navy and at present is stationed in San Diego. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Einboden of Eagle Rock, California.

And so they're Mr. and Mrs. Wagner

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Darrel Wagner
(Patricia Ann Gardner)

"Do you Patricia Ann Gardner take this man, Phillip Darrel Wagner, to be your lawful wedded husband?"

As the "I do's" were being said, we added another set of names to the newlyweds of Elsinore Valley.

Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Ford of Lincoln Street in Elsinore and Phillip, son of Wanda Wagner of Elsinore and Phillip D. Wagner of Anderson, California, were wed on Saturday, the 25th of May, in an afternoon ceremony solemnized by the Rev. Elias Jones at the First Presbyterian Church in Elsinore before 100 guests.

The bride chose an afternoon suit of light blue slipper satin with matching headpiece, white slipper satin shoes and a necklace of small pearls. She carried a white carnation corsage on a white Bible.

Mrs. Rowena Crum was the bride's honor attendant. She wore a pink and white brocaded taffeta dress with matching pink headpiece, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Marcia Williams was the bride's other attendant. She wore a pink and white brocaded taffeta dress with matching headpiece and also carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

James Wagner of Redding, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were John Wagner, younger brother of the groom, and Richard Staley of Elsinore.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social hall.

The bride was a 1957 graduate of the Elsinore Union High School and is presently employed as stenographer at the County Assessor's office in Riverside.

The bridegroom was a 1957 graduate of the same school and is presently stationed at North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego where he holds the rank of Petty Officer Second Class. He will complete his four year enlistment with the Navy in September of 1963.

After a honeymoon in Big Bear City the newlyweds are now at home to their friends at 33056 Hill Street in Elsinore. ■

Kitch-Rybolt wedding solemnized

Mrs. James Kitch, the former Donna Kay Rybolt

Miss Donna Kay Rybolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Rybolt of Elsinore, became the bride of James Stephens Kitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Kitch of Bishop, in a double ring ceremony witnessed by more than 150 relatives and friends on Sunday, June 16th in the Elsinore Church of Christ. L. A. Williams of the Bellflower Christian Church performed the traditional ceremony.

For her wedding the bride chose a portrait gown of chantilly lace and silk organza. The basque bodice of lace featured a Sabrina neckline and traditional long tapered sleeves. The skirt front, designed of organza and draped at the sides to form a full bouffance, was highlighted by a wide panel of lace over organza, which fell into a graceful chapel train. Her full elbow length veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of feathered carnations and stephanotis, centered with a single white orchid.

The honor attendant was Miss Lu Ann Rybolt of Corona, dressed in a gown of pink nylon chiffon over taffeta, designed with a bouffant skirt and featuring a matching lace midriff jacket with long tapered sleeves. She wore matching shoes and headpiece with a veil and carried a cascade bouquet of feathered pink carnations, centered with a white glamelia.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Marianne Longe of Elsinore and Erma Salas of Temecula. Both were gowned identically as the maid of honor, except their dresses were fashioned in powder blue and they carried bouquets of blue carnations and white glamelias.

Jack Powers of Connecticut served as best man. Ushers were Edward Boontjer of Elsinore and Dennis Kitch of Riverside.

Miss Deanna Durham sang "Because" and "One Hand, One Heart" accompanied by Mrs. Howard Kitch at the organ.

Immediately following the ceremony the newlyweds greeted their guests at a reception held in the church social hall. The tiered wedding cake and punch were served by Mrs. Magdeline Cavanaugh, Florence Lewis, Myrtle Wagner, Inez Fare. Miss Diane Stanek circulated the guest book and the Misses Mary Ann and Shirline Cavanaugh were in charge of the gifts.

The bride was a 1963 graduate of the Elsinore Union High School where she was a member of the Future Homemakers of America and the Girls' Athletic Association. She also served as varsity song-leader and cheerleader. In her senior year the new Mrs. Kitch was Homecoming Princess. Off campus she was a member of the Job's Daughters.

The bridegroom was a 1958 graduate of Elsinore Union High School and was active in athletics. He joined the United States Navy shortly after graduation and is presently serving aboard the USS Arizara as Radioman Second Class and is stationed at Pearl Harbor. ■

CHESTER IS NEW MINUTE MAN

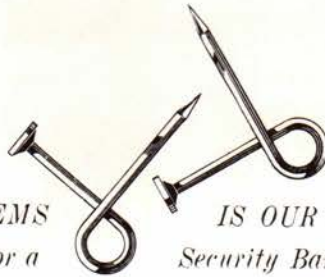

Chester Zinck, former San Diego resident, recent-ly joined the ranks of the self-employed.

He is the new owner and operator of the Union Oil Service on Grand Avenue in Elsinore.

Chester and his wife Helen are well acquainted with the valley and in the valley, as they have visited at the homes of Helen's family in Elsinore many times. Helen is sister to Mrs. Joe Harrison of Cory-don Road and daughter of Mrs. Lee Michaels.

They are making their home in Sedco Hills and, according to the Zincks, El-sinore Valley is the place to live. ■

Why Did I Subscribe to La Laguna Revue?

CONTRIBUTED BY A NEW SUBSCRIBER

Last week I had to go to Los Angeles, I thought, to purchase an item my doctor said was an absolute necessity to improve my health.

I boarded the bus, in the heat of the day and in no time, four hours later, I found myself in the center of the big city.

Then I began my search. Up Main Street I walked, in and out of a hundred stores, where everybody moved so fast, at first I thought the buildings were on fire. I stopped sales personnel and asked where I could locate this wonderful prescription the doctor had ordered for me.

The doctor said it would restore my sense of humor, that it would force me to give up my worst habit, that of drinking peanut-butter milk shakes and at the end of the month I would feel so well that I would never be without it again. No matter the cost, this prescription must be filled and filled immediately.

Well, I found it, and in Los Angeles at one of the biggest stores, but the saleslady informed me it was hers and I could not have it, but she gave me this
